The Wildlife and Countryside (Registration, Ringing and Marking of Certain Captive Birds) (England) Regulations 2015

As part of the government’s Red Tape Challenge to reduce and simplify the regulatory landscape in England, Defra has consolidated the Wildlife and Countryside (Registration and Ringing of Certain Captive Birds) Regulations 1982 as amended (the “Ringing Regulations”).

Consolidating the Ringing Regulations has simply brought the rules in respect of registration and ringing and marking of Schedule 4 birds into one place in England; there is no material change to the law. The consolidating Statutory Instrument, which applies in England only, was laid in March and comes into force on the 1 July 2015.

A copy is available at:

Published: 23 June 2015