You must also inform this office in writing if:

- You have changed your Veterinary Surgeon
- You do not have any stock eligible for TB testing
- You are in doubt as to the eligibility of your stock for TB testing.

Movement restrictions for overdue tests

As a herd keeper, it is your responsibility to ensure that your TB test is completed within the given time period. If applicable your Veterinary Surgeon is responsible for submitting the TB test on time following completion of the test. Failure to complete and submit your TB test will result in movement restrictions being applied. Whilst under movement restrictions you would not be permitted to move any animals onto or off the premises except directly to a slaughterhouse under the authority of a movement licence. Local Authority Trading Standards departments are kept informed of all herds under TB movement restrictions.

Information for Herd Keepers who claim the Single Payment Scheme (SPS)

SMR 4, which sets out cross compliance requirements relating to food and feed law, requires appropriate measures to be taken to prevent the introduction and spread of contagious diseases transmissible to humans through food.

Herd keepers are reminded that breaches of their obligation to carry out routine TB herd tests may be a breach of SMR 4 and may affect their entitlement under the Single Payment Scheme.
